Dear parents!

Happy Autumn! My favorite time of year!

We have a busy and fun month ahead of us, the activities and projects we learn will revolve around Autumn and Thanksgiving, our letters will be O, Q and G.

Our story unit this month will be IF YOU GIVE A MOUSE A COOKIE, written by Laura Numeroff.

If you give a mouse a cookie , he's going to want a glass of milk and that's where the trouble begins. One thing leads to another and pretty soon mouse is off on adventure throughout the house. your child will love this story because the events follow a sequence and they will be able to predict what happens next .

The weather in October gave us the opportunity to go outside daily and play in our sandbox. Playing in sand helps children to develop fine motor skills while playing and having fun!

They get to work on *pinching and grasping
*scooping and pouring
* building and molding
*hand to eye coordination
*using tools

All of these help strengthen their hand muscles to help them gain strength to pick up a pencil and help them with their writing skills.

I wish you all a Happy Thanksgiving!

Ms Lindsey

October has been such a beautiful month for our little ones.

After settling back into school routines, we've seen each child discover amazing new activities in their own way. We're amazed every day by the new words they're trying out and how their little vocabularies keep growing.

We've spent lots of time exploring colors through art, using chalk, crayons, watercolors and markers. Watching them experiment with each one has been such a joy.

We've also noticed how beautifully they're adapting to our classroom routines, snack time, playground time, and learning to wait for their turn.

It's been lovely to see them start recognizing their friends names and calling each other.

With the arrival of fall, we've loved enjoying the falling leaves and the change in the weather together.

Thank you for trusting us to be part of this important stage.

As we move into November, one of the most beautiful months of the year, we carry that same spirit of wonder with us. Not just because of the colors in nature, but because of what it means for our culture here. It's a time to give thanks as a family and to remember that giving thanks is really about noticing all the beautiful things we already have.

Let's not forget to plant that seed in our children. That, more than anything, is the most important gift we can give them.

This November, our month will be focused on GRATITUDE. We'll do activities to give thanks for the day we're starting, for the love of our classmates and our families, and for all the blessings we have from our Higher Powers.

Thank you for letting us be part of their growth, their laughter, and their discoveries every day.

We are excited to see how much our little learners have grown since starting preschool! After completing our first six weeks together, the children are becoming more confident, independent, and comfortable with their classroom routines and friends.

This month, we will dive into our Creative Curriculum Clothes Study! The children will explore different types of clothing, clothes we wear in different seasons, decorative details such as lace and buttons, and different closures, including buttons, knots, and zippers. Through hands-on activities, they will practice describing their observations, asking questions, discovering opposite and rhyming words, counting, and sorting.

We are also strengthening our fine motor skills as we use pencils, crayons, scissors, Play-Doh, and other classroom tools. During group play, the children are developing their social skills by making plans together, sharing ideas, and learning to resolve conflicts. On the playground, they are building gross motor skills through running, moving around obstacles, and exploring their surroundings. Puzzles, building blocks, and magnetic blocks are also helping them develop their cognitive skills, including problem-solving, creativity, and critical thinking.

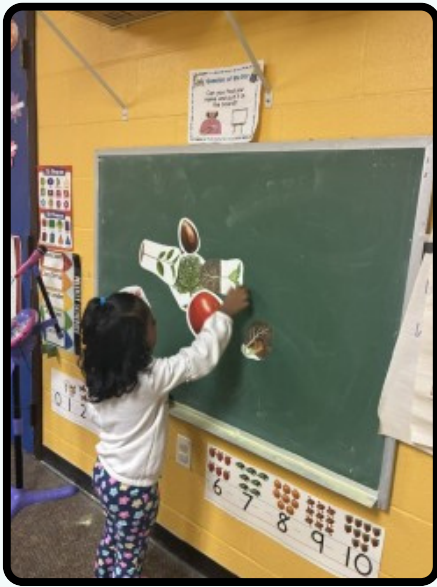

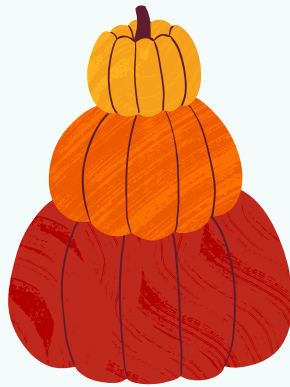

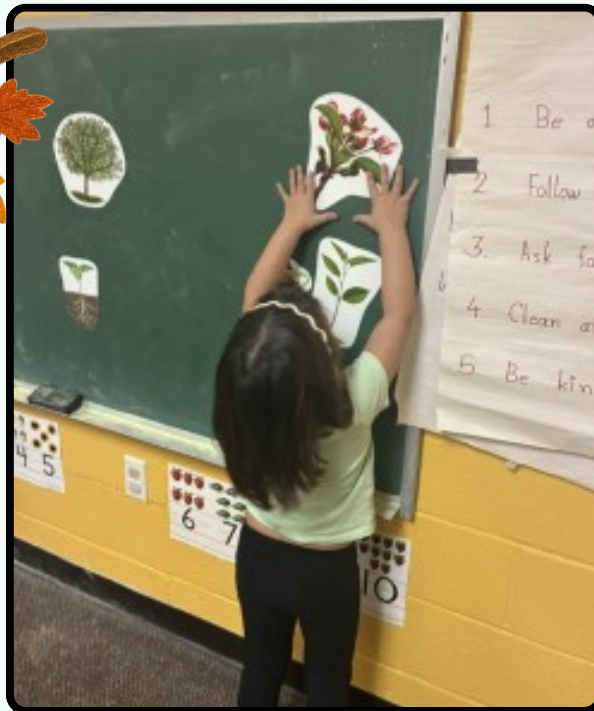

We look forward to another wonderful month of exploring, learning, playing, and growing together!

Happy November!

Ms. Ghosh

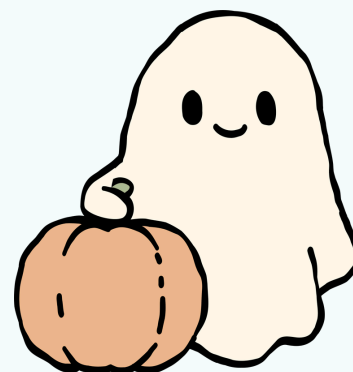

October really flew by! We enjoyed beautiful fall leaves, bright orange pumpkins and plenty of creepy crafts! The children loved listening to stories from our library friend, going on a spooky scavenger hunt, and showing off their costumes during our Halloween parade and class party. We had some very cute little goblins! 🧛🎃

Now that November is here, the leaves are falling and the air is getting chillier. This month we'll be learning and having fun with fall crafts, Thanksgiving, families and our friend Tom the Turkey!

We're looking forward to a cozy creative month in November filled with laughter, learning and thankfulness.

Ms. Trish
